Epreuve de : Anglais (LV1) Classe : 11^{ème} science Coef : 2 Durée : 2heures

There are many ways to get your first job. The first place where you can ask for a job is the organization where you are undergoing practical training. Another thing you can always do is to make a list of organizations which need your kind of skills and just send them a copy of your CV. You can also go to a personnel or employment agencies. Many employment agencies deal with employers and handle temporary and permanent jobs. One of few places to find a jobs is the Internet also known as the word wide web. Go on the world wide web and type in wanted jobs in any major search engine, or the specific job that you are looking for, and you will come up with many results. Then you should check the newspapers where the employers advertise for job vacancies. You can use newspapers and Internet in order to put your advertising called mini resume. Usually this mini resume is published online on employer's websites or it is advertised in the newspapers. It includes a reference to the complete resume. Composing your mini resume try to write only necessary information, tell about your education, experience, additional knowledge and skills in a few word. One of crucial steps to getting a job is actually to talk to any trustworthy person you are friends or acquaintances with. You may ask your friends and relatives for help as up to fifty percent of job vacancies never get advertised in the newspapers. As weird as this may sound employers generally hire people they know, and people sent to them from people they know.
